HOTEL & RESIDENCES
MIAMI DESIGN DISTRICT

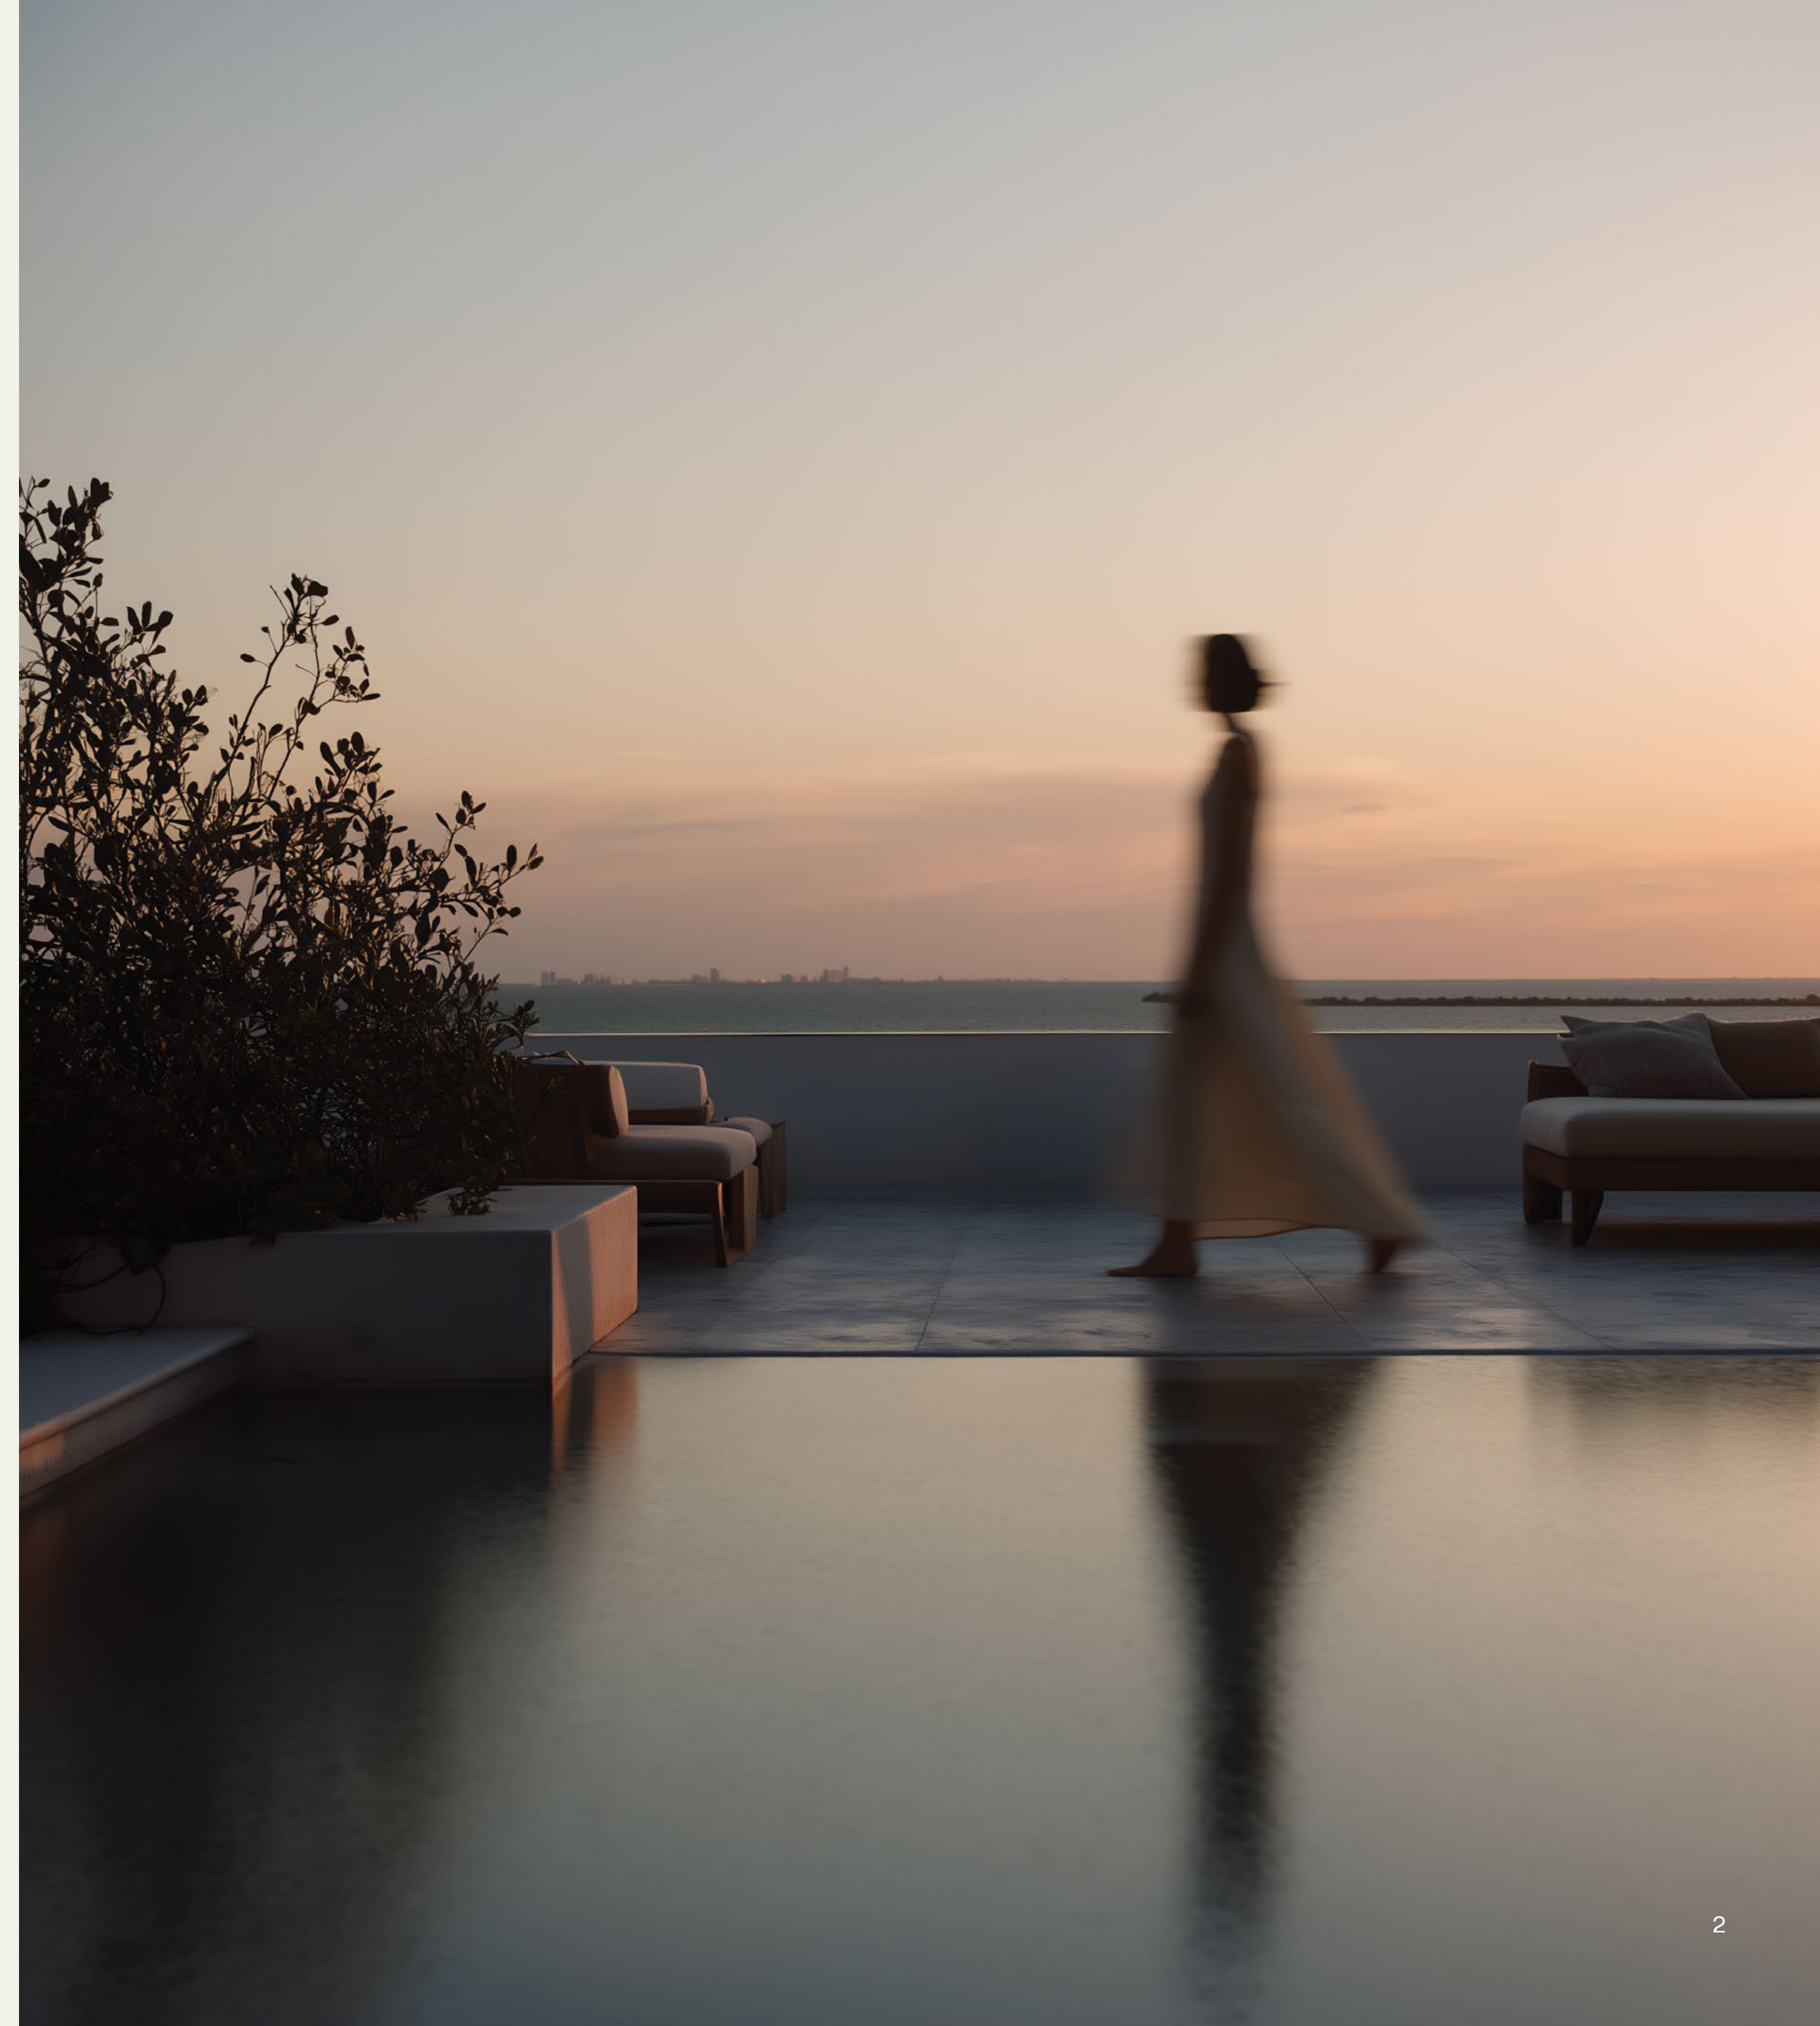

Fouquet's Hotel & Residences marks the arrival of the city's most distinguished hotel-serviced condominium, located in the heart of the Design District, Miami's vibrant and cultural neighborhood. For the first time ever, Fouquet's extends its iconic hotel lifestyle—its service, its access, its unmistakable Parisian spirit—into a private residential address.

Designed by Pritzker Prize-winning architect Sir David Chipperfield, with interiors by Parisian studio RDAI and landscape architecture by Perry Guillot, Fouquet's Hotel & Residences creates a dialogue between architectural restraint and the enduring sophistication synonymous with the Fouquet's name.

Comprising 143 impeccably appointed one- to four-bedroom residences, Fouquet's Hotel & Residences pairs sculptural forms with refined interiors and beautifully framed views. Since 1899, Fouquet's has embodied a uniquely Parisian blend of glamour, culture, and hospitality—now shaping a residential experience defined by heritage, artistry, and international prestige.

Developed by Raycliff Capital, Fort Partners, Constellation Hotels Holding Ltd. and Miami Design District Associates, this project establishes a new landmark defined by cultural currency and architectural restraint.

David Chipperfield Architects' design language is one of clarity and rigor—bold in form, classical in reference, enduring by design. His work embraces permanence over the transient. Every proportion is calibrated. Every material considered. The result is architecture that anchors rather than announces.

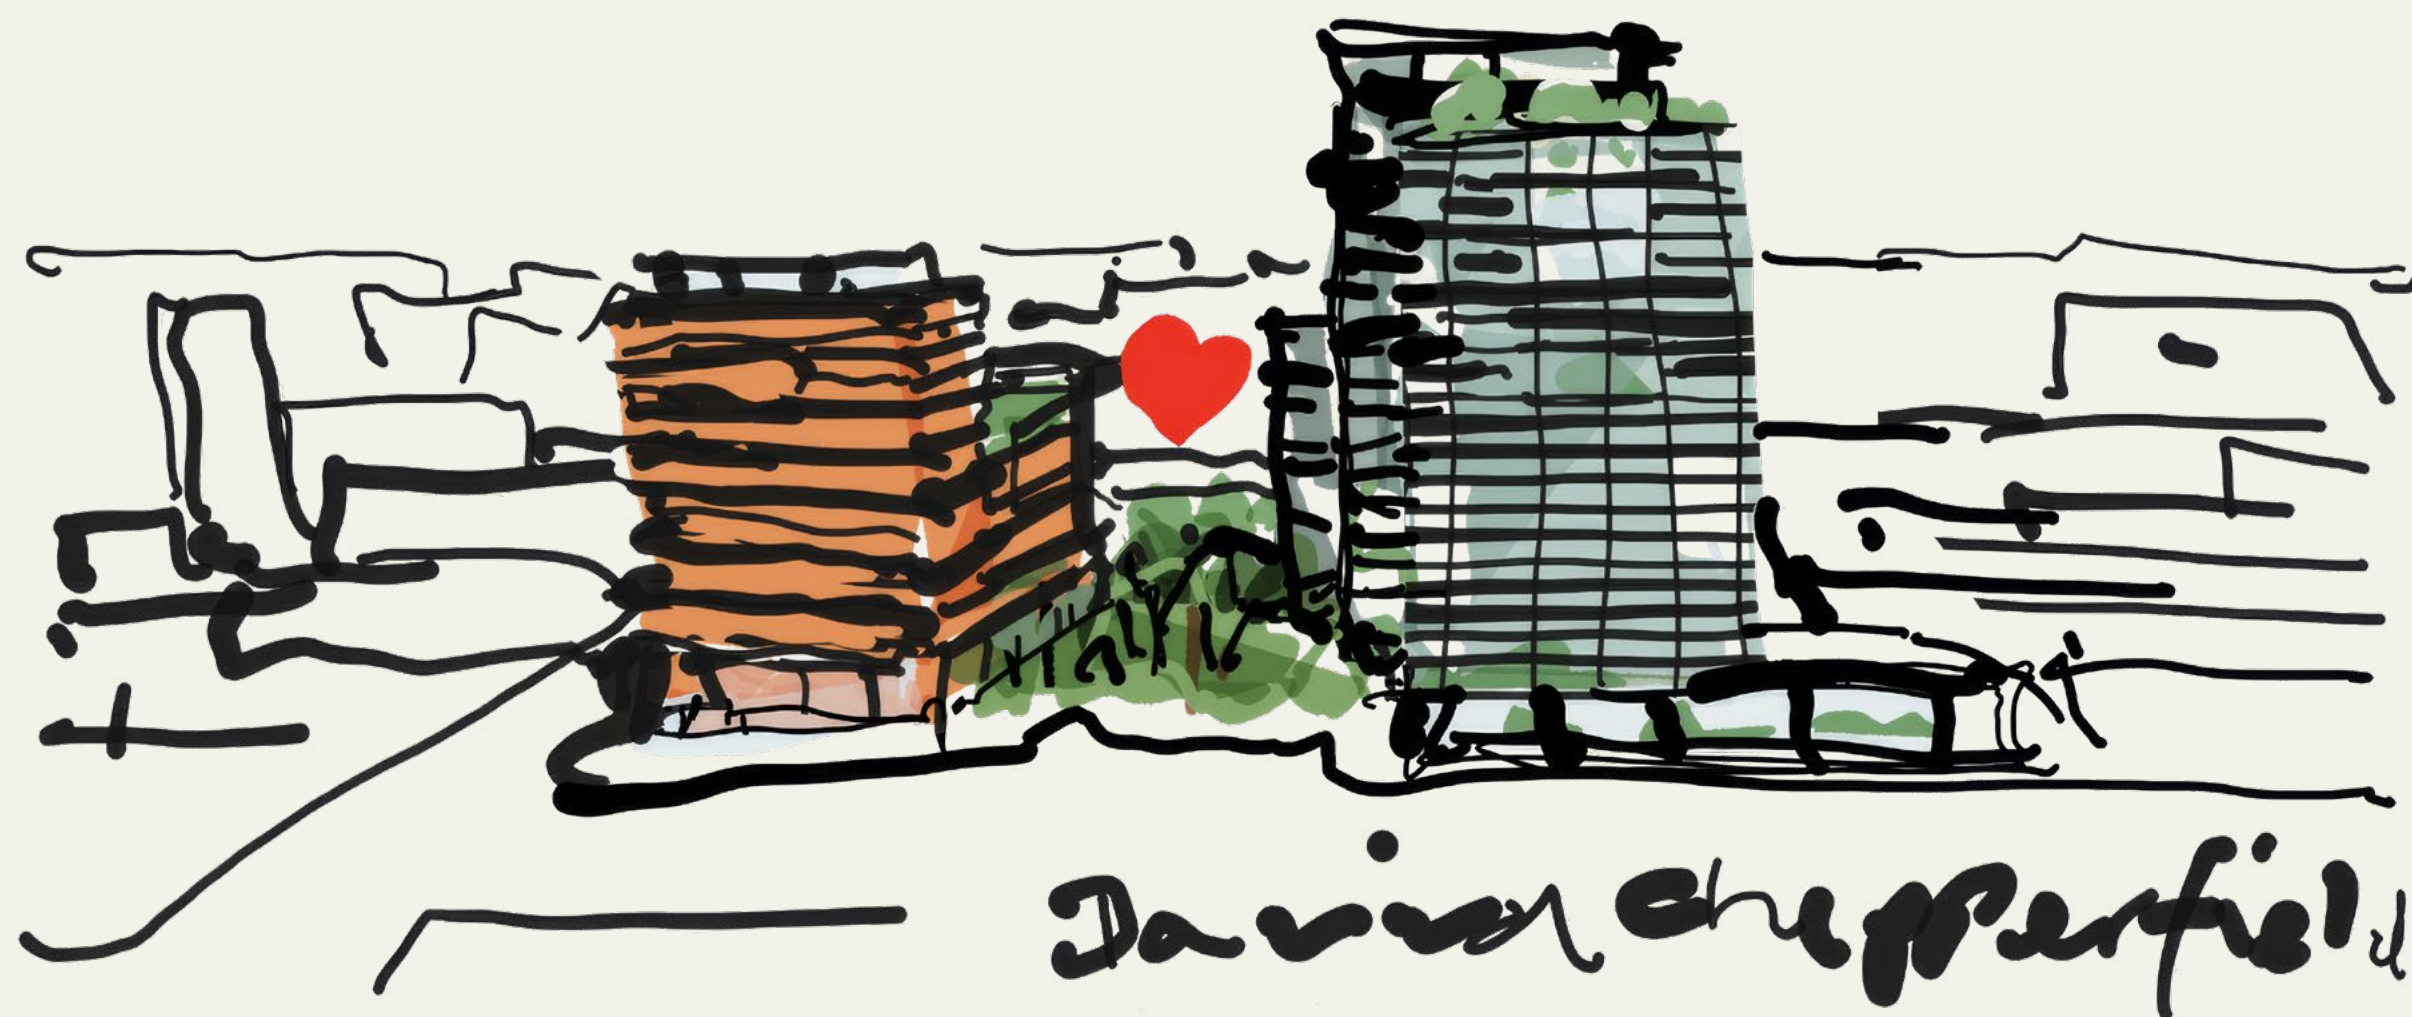

Architecture as Context

At Fouquet's Hotel & Residences, David Chipperfield Architects' commitment to permanence and precision shapes a building defined by its context. A colonnade frames the arrival sequence. Glass and mineral cladding balance transparency with mass. The façade responds to Miami's changing light as it shifts throughout the day.

David Chipperfield Architects' practice spans cultural institutions and civic landmarks across continents. His projects include the Neues Museum in Berlin—a restoration that earned the EU Prize for Contemporary Architecture; the James Simon Gallery, where a colonnade extends Museum Island's classical language into contemporary form; Museo Jumex in Mexico City, elevated on columns to connect private collection with the public realm; and the America's Cup Building in Valencia, where stacked horizontal planes frame the Mediterranean.

Each project demonstrates a commitment to context, materiality and architectural restraint that transcends fashion.

“Architecture is not just about buildings, but about creating a sense of place.”

THE INTERIORS MODERN SENSIBILITY

RDAI's interior design is defined by the careful calibration of scale, materiality and light. Terrazzo floors and fluted walls structure the space, while glass brick partitions filter light and articulate spatial depth. Sculptural pendant lights animate the volume, scaling the space vertically and reinforcing its architectural presence. Fixed furniture and acoustic ceilings complete the composition.

Alive in Luminosity

Bringing clarity and precision to every project, RDAI's design process distills spaces to essential forms, layering refined materials and thoughtful details to create interiors that are both inviting and enduring.

Living spaces are calm, intentional, and shaped by light. Floor-to-ceiling glass opens each residence to natural light and sky, while warm woods, soft neutrals and organic textures define a sophisticated interior palette.

A Culinary Canvas

Kitchens at Fouquet's Hotel & Residences are designed as a place to gather, dine and entertain. Oak and lacquered wood cabinetry with sculptural moldings define the aesthetic. Silestone countertops provide a durable work surface. Curved edges and satin fixtures refine the details. These are focal points where cooking and conversation converge.

Where Warmth Meets Precision

The bathrooms at this property function as private retreats. Natural oak millwork, fluted glass that diffuses light, micro-ceramic walls and stainless-steel fixtures define the space.

Sinks and tubs are paired with specialty hardware and porcelain wall tiles. Spaces designed for both daily ritual and relaxation.

A magnet for visionaries and vanguards alike, Miami Design District is emerging as one of the world's most dynamic enclaves of fashion, art and high design.

Here, European legacy brands neighbor experimental ateliers. Public plazas function as open-air galleries where monumental art and architecture encourage discovery. For those in the know, the district attracts established designers and independent creators alike.

An Urban Oasis

A carefully composed neighborhood spanning less than one square mile, Miami Design District stands as a masterwork of urban planning — where contemporary architecture is punctuated by flourishing greenery and luscious orchid groves.

Where Culture Thrives

Home to more than 130 art galleries, showrooms, architecture studios, antique dealers and cultural spaces, Miami Design District spans NE 36th to 43rd Streets, between North Miami Avenue and Biscayne Boulevard — a rare concentration of creative energy within just a few walkable blocks.

An Exclusive Enclave

A short stroll around the locale reveals flagship boutiques from Dior, Gucci, Louis Vuitton, Prada and Saint Laurent in addition to design showrooms from Minotti, Poliform and Poltrona Frau. Two Michelin Guide restaurants by Joël Robuchon and celebrated eateries by award-winning chefs ensure world-class dining is only moments away.

This is so much more than simple proximity to the now and the next—it's complete cultural immersion at Miami's most refined address.

INTERIOR DESIGN

RDAI works to transcend the boundaries between architecture, interior architecture and design. RDAI's distinguishing characteristic is its conceptual approach, which involves considering the context, culture and time into which a project is to be born.

The unique character of each of their creations is the result of pure lines, meticulous attention to detail and supreme craftsmanship. Materiality and sensitivity are at the heart of their artistic approach, both in their relationship with materials and the artisans.

LANDSCAPE

Perry Guillot Inc. is a landscape architecture firm in Southampton, New York, specializing in design commissions for private clients and historic properties.

Collaborating with architects both modernist and traditionalist — the firm's work shuns stylistic constraints and design trends and is guided more strongly by a site's environmental context and cultural history. These designed landscapes strive for a heightened essence while offering a decided preference for scale and form over textured seasonality.
